

Megan Heil, MSCJ

Former Eagle County Sheriff's Office

Retired Law Enforcement, 22 years

To the voters of Eagle County,

I am a retired law enforcement officer, and for about 15 years I worked alongside Rebecca Anderson at the Eagle County Sheriff's Office. I have known her for 20 years, and it is my honor to endorse her for Eagle County Sheriff.

I watched Rebecca on calls at 2 a.m., in tense situations where the right words mattered, and in quiet moments when no one was watching. She was the same person in all of them: honest, steady, and fully committed to doing the job right. Integrity isn't something Rebecca talks about. It's how she works.

Rebecca has given more than 20 years to public safety in this county. She started as a 911 dispatcher, served 17 years as a patrol deputy and field training officer with the Sheriff's Office, and today is a patrol sergeant with the Vail Police Department, where she leads the Crisis Negotiations Team and works as a K-9 handler. She knows this county, and she knows the work.

Workplace culture matters in law enforcement more than most people realize. Over the years, I have watched good, experienced deputies leave jobs they loved, and every one of those departures costs a community training, knowledge, and relationships that take years to rebuild. Rebecca understands this from the inside. She is offering real change: a sheriff's office where leadership listens, where deputies are mentored and supported, and where their wellbeing is taken seriously. When people want to stay, the whole community is safer for it.

I spent 13 years as a School Resource Officer in Eagle County, so I was especially glad to see Rebecca make school safety a top priority. A consistent, trusted presence on campus makes a real difference for students, staff, and families. Our schools need more of that coverage, and she has a plan to get there.

Rebecca is hardworking, dedicated, and ready to lead. She will serve every resident and visitor with fairness and respect, and she will bring the steady, thoughtful leadership Eagle County deserves.

I encourage you to vote for Rebecca Anderson for Eagle County Sheriff on November 3.